Andrew Grant Signs Taxpayer Protection Pledge

(Folsom, Calif.) – Republican congressional candidate Andrew Grant, CEO of the Northern California World Trade Center and family small business owner, has signed Americans for Tax Reform’s Taxpayer Protection Pledge.

“There is no fiscal restraint in Washington and it is time we finally put an end to the tax and spend philosophy that’s led to a nearly $20 trillion national debt,” said Grant. “If Democrats and Republicans should agree on one thing, it’s that higher taxes on working people is not the right direction for our country. I’m running on a platform of fiscal restraint and making sure the tax money we have is spent the right way.”

Andrew Grant is CEO of the Northern California World Trade Center, promoting expanded trade in the region. A graduate of the US Naval Academy, he joined the Marines and served as an intelligence officer and reconnaissance commander, with tours in Southeast Asia, the Middle East, and across Europe. As a combat veteran, he fought alongside Special Forces units against All Qaeda in Afghanistan and protected Albanian citizens in Kosova. He served on the staff of the Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff and finished his uniformed service with the Defense Intelligence Agency's North Korea analysis group.
