

John,

You may have seen our names before in your inbox. We're Lisa Cassinis, Kate Chapek, Lucy Martikyan, and Morgan Miller Nguyen, the finance director, communications director, digital director, and policy advisor of this campaign.

Too many women like us have taken jobs in politics, even here in California, only to find out their boss is more interested in their dating life than their job performance, or that what they say about equality and fighting sexual harassment is really just talk. We've seen friends and colleagues grow so discouraged, they've given up on their dreams of building a better world altogether.

Today, we're proud to tell you that our boss, John Chiang, is the real deal.

Over the last few months, other politicians responded to disgusting allegations about powerful men by issuing cautious press releases or saying nothing (perhaps because they were too afraid of being called out themselves).

But John not only forcefully stood with accusers and condemned a culture that allows sexist conduct to grow and fester, he wrote a comprehensive plan to prevent sexual harassment and assault in California's state government and hold predators accountable.

Yesterday, John asked you to stand with him in putting his plan into action. If you haven't added your name yet, we hope you'll join us now.

We all joined this team for different reasons, but at the core, we all believe John's a good-hearted, pragmatic progressive who has used his power and privilege to help real people. And we're glad to say that his statements and his actions on this issue are no different.

We're proud to stand with him and proud to know he stands with us.

If you're ready to join us, add your name and stand with John to fight against sexism and sexual harassment and assault in California.

Thank you,

Lisa Cassinis, Finance Director

Kate Chapek, Communications Director

Lucy Martikyan, Digital Director

Morgan Miller Nguyen, Policy Advisor
