John Cox Campaign Evaluating Debate Series to Reach Broadest California Audience

California -- The John Cox for Governor campaign is evaluating over a dozen offers by notable organizations and media outlets including the Public Policy Institute of California, KPBS, The Latino Journal, Politico, The San Francisco Chronicle/KCRA, We Stand With Seniors/PBS, CNN, and FOX News, to afford accessibility for the broadest audience of California voters to hear from both candidates.

A Fox News national debate in late September will be part of a five debate series the campaign will be agreeing to which could also potentially include CNN and the San Francisco Chronicle/KCRA in early October.

We understand both campaigns have been advised of all of the above debates.

While Cox participated in nearly all of the bipartisan debates during the primary, Mr. Newsom was often criticized by his then opponents Antonio Villaraigosa and John Chiang for skipping several debates between the candidates.

Note: According to Nielsen, as of June 24, 2018, FOX News channel is ranked the number one most viewed cable station in the nation, whereas CNN is ranked 13th, behind the Food Network and A&E.
