Howard Jarvis Taxpayers Association Endorses Joshua Hoover for Folsom Cordova School Board

FOLSOM, CA - Joshua Hoover, a candidate for the Folsom Cordova Unified School District Board of Education, announced that he has received an endorsement from the Howard Jarvis Taxpayers Association.

“Joshua has a strong record of fighting for taxpayers and advocating for needed reforms during his time working in the California Legislature,” said Jon Coupal, President of the Howard Jarvis Taxpayers Association. “He will bring that record to the Folsom Cordova School Board, ensuring that your tax dollars are used effectively to improve the lives of students.”

The Howard Jarvis Taxpayers Association, which represents over a quarter-million taxpayers statewide, is dedicated to the protection of Proposition 13 and the advancement of taxpayers' rights.

"I am proud to be the only candidate in this race supported by California's leading taxpayer protection organization," said Hoover. "As a school board member, I will be a strong advocate for data-driven, results-oriented programs that improve student achievement while ensuring fiscal responsibility."

Hoover is a Folsom parent who serves as the policy director for California State Assemblyman Kevin Kiley, developing the Assemblyman's annual legislative agenda and advising him on education issues. Throughout his time in the State Legislature, Hoover has worked on education reforms to expand access to technology in the classroom and ensure every child has the opportunity to receive a quality education. He is also a member of the Russell Ranch Elementary PTA and serves on the Folsom Cordova Special Education Community Advisory Committee.
